PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

Communication Science graduate who turned two short-term internships into measurable results: streamlined 40–60 documentation records monthly for a government public affairs division, and helped 10–20 micro-business participants per session progress through a bank's financial inclusion program. Built a foundation in stakeholder communication and CSR execution across two very different environments — public sector and Islamic finance — then spent the past year sharpening that foundation through active industry engagement and continued upskilling in digital marketing. Looking for a PR/Corporate Communications role where consistency, not just capability, gets the chance to show up.
